Santa to make 'fly in' to Village on Saturday, Dec. 13

Carmel Valley small fry are advised to keep their eyes on the skies because the Outlook's North Pole correspondent has advised us that Santa Claus is planning to pay them a pre-Christmas visit at 10:00 a.m. on December 13. That well known Valley pilot, Don Cummings will fly the Jolly Old Elf into the Valley airstrip since the sleigh and reindeer are in the shop for final repairs before the big trip the night of December 24th.

Everyone is invited to turn out to welcome Santa at the field and join the parade escorting him to the Community Center. An honor guard from the Trail and Saddle Club will lead and all organizations are invited to be there in uniform to join the line of march. Santa will ride in his usual place of honor on the fire engine.

At the Center he will hold court from an elaborate throne to hear the youngsters Christmas wishes and present each one with a candy cane. St. Nicholas must return to his Workshop at 12:30, but he invites the children to plan to stay and attend the Saturday matinee.

Miss Barbara Robbins of 74 Boronda Road has presented an early Christmas gift to the Community Center Board. Her "front forty" planted with Monterey pines has been presented to the Center for a money-making venture. Board president Gordon Harlander invites families to bring their saws and come to the Robbins home between 1 and 4 on December 13 and 14 to select and cut their Christmas tree. All proceeds will go to the Community Center.

The Rhyming Philosopher

RETROSPECTION

There's a debt I owe that I cannot pay,
Though I had all the wealth and power of kings,
Besides all the time up to judgment day
Borne with phantom-like haunt of rememberings.

But whatever the sight of a graveyard brings
With the fresh-cut flowers to honor the dead,
Still there's always a tug on my taut heart-strings,
And the guilt that I feel must needs be said.

So my tears well deep as the bugles pray
For soldiers lain low by their broken wings,
But for whom we might not be here today.
Though I question the need, there's no answerings.

Knowing all that I am from a parent springs,
A product of those who suffered or bled
And who launched me on purposeful voyagings,
Yet so little have I contributed.

It is not that my thought to the graveyard clings
As I pensively walk with my wonderings,
But rather that I should be heard to say
A "thank you" to those who have passed this way.

TO THE EDITOR

To The Editor:

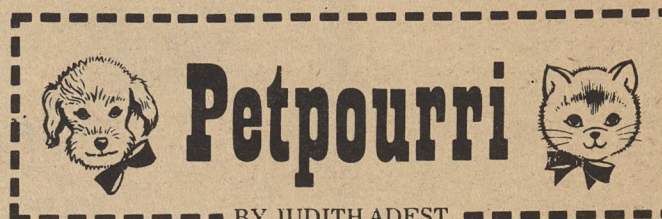

It is time someone called attention to the fact that people are using the Business Peoples Garbage bins to dump their garbage!

Last Friday in the early afternoon, two men in a car lifted a large garbage can out and proceeded to put the plastic bag from the can into the bin behind the House of Koon.

The license no. was taken and unless the parties reimburse me for their garbage the matter will be looked into.

This has been going on all over the Village for a long time. How sneaky can people get!

Sincerely,
VERA STOKES

'TIS THE SEASON...

Thanksgiving, nowadays, seems to be but a preamble to Christmas, and with our turkey dinners fading fast into memory, our thoughts and energies are being hurried into the Christmas spirit ... and Christmas shopping! More kittens and puppies are given as gifts at Christmastime than any other time during the year; perhaps, as you plan your list, you are thinking of just such a gift...

As with any gift, you must consider the size, color and type, as well as whether the receiver will appreciate it -- except that with live animals, the decision must be weighed even more carefully. You cannot merely giftwrap this present and expect it to be exchanged if it doesn't fit!

If you are thinking about giving a kitten or puppy, you must be certain it will be well-received. Never, never give an animal as a surprise, unless you are a parent making the gift to your own child. But if you are considering this as a pet for a close friend or relative, you had better do some preliminary research. Perhaps your eight year old nephew has been begging for a dog. Before you swoop in with your arms full of wriggling puppy-love, discuss it with his parents. Most people who don't have pets have reasons for not owning them. Perhaps someone in the family is allergic to dogs or cats; perhaps the family travels too much to be inconvenienced by boarding or taking along the pet; perhaps they simply don't want to be bothered with the care a pet requires.

In addition, you must realize that no child under the age of 12 should be entrusted with total, unsupervised care and responsibility for any animal. No matter how earnestly he may promise, once the novelty has worn off, it's going to fall on Mom's shoulders to feed and care for the pet. So make sure Mom is really willing to accept this new responsibility.

There is also the matter of selection. Dogs come in all sizes and shapes and it's easy, with a little study (the AKC Dog Book is an excellent help), to find the right breed for almost anyone. Be certain the person to whom you're giving a dog can feed, groom, train and exercise it properly. For example, big dogs eat more than small dogs and feeding a St. Bernard can actually be a financial burden to some people -- as can the cost of regular poodle grooming.

As parents contemplating a four-legged addition to the family, there are additional cautions. Not only must you be prepared to help care for the new pet, but you must also realize that children have to be taught how to handle and care for their new friend. A puppy or kitten is not a toy to be played with while new and then tossed-away. Animals come with long-term leases -- 10 to 15 years or more -- and even though your children's fascination may dwindle, the pet will still require attention.

Consider, too, the needs of your children. A gentle little girl will probably be delighted with a kitten; a rough-and-tumble boy will be better suited by a spunky, outgoing pup.

If there are Senior Citizens on your list this year, why not think about a pet for them? Recent research shows that animals work wonders at bringing spice into the lives of the elderly. Just remember that you must match the pet to the needs and capacities of its receiver. A kitten might prove a wonderful pet for such people; kept indoors, it requires a minimum of care and physical exertion and provides amusement, affection and companionship.

With a little effort, you can make sure the pet you give will be a treasured gift for years to come. Remember, above all, that you are determining the fate of a living thing. An unwanted sweater or pair of gloves can lie forgotten in some bottom drawer; what happens to unwanted puppies and kittens?

'Environmental Landscaping in Carmel Valley

Currently on display in the Green Room at the Tantamount Theatre, Carmel Valley, is a stunning photographic exhibit by Stone, Post & Flower. Last August, I saw one of their creations up on La Rancheria. This was an addition to the home of Walt and Kit Stewart, which Kit named the Waterhouse.

Taking into the consideration of the beauty of the natural environment and light patterns, Stone, Post & Flower sculptured the Waterhouse in fluid unbroken lines. Tranquilly rounded, instead of sharply angled, the bathhouse combines contemporary convenience with the charm of the past. Mellowed woods and native stone blend subtly to accent the variance in texture.

Not one hinge or light fixture which would be incongruous to the serene atmosphere was installed. Each piece -- each accessory was chosen as carefully as a landscape painter chooses his paints.

Lovely color photographs of the Waterhouse are included in the exhibit. Other displays are: a rock retaining wall built without the use of mortar at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Coby Lorenzen, Carmel Valley; a small garden created for the home of Mark Fields, C.V.; landscaping designed and built for the home of Don and Pat Wesler, C.V.; landscaping conceived and built at the home of Jim and Margie Ziegler, C.V.; bench and patio created for the backyard of Mr. and Mrs. Will Shaw's Monterey home; landscaping and drainage system for the Carmel Valley residence of David and Joan Harris; landscaping designed for and installed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Randolph Hilton, C.V.; and the Palo Alto home of David and Joan Harris (formerly Joan Baez) completely remodeled.

With the color photographs are hand-lettered posters of poetry which express the philosophy of this group of artistic builders. About themselves, they say:

"Here are photographs of environmental landscaping and building... Stone, Post & Flower is a group of people who work to create environments for people to live in. We seek to build environments that add to the qualities of harmony, peace and joy in people's lives and in relation to the larger environment. Our office is located in Carmel Valley and most of our work so far has been done here. Ilbert Tucker, Reynold Strauss, Noel Binford, Simon Kelly, Alan Burns, Roger Grafstein and Warren Kaufman are the core of Stone, Post & Flower."

And about their philosophy... One poster reads:

"People are beginning to suspect that the greatest freedom is not achieved by sheer irresponsibility. The earth is common ground and we are its overlords, whether we hold title or not. Gradually the idea is taking form that the land must be held in safe keeping, that one generation is to some extent responsible to the next; and that it is contrary to the public good to allow an individual to destroy almost beyond repair any part of the soil or the water or even the view." - E.B. White

A quotation from Kahlil Gibran's "The Prophet" is the most fitting of all, I feel...

"And what is it to work with love?

It is to weave the cloth with threads drawn from your heart, even as if your beloved were to wear that cloth.

It is to build a house with affection, even as if your beloved were to dwell in that house.

It is to sow seeds with tenderness and reap the harvest with joy, even as if your beloved were to eat the fruit.

It is to charge all things you fashion with a breath of your own spirit..."

Roger Grafstein prepared the exhibit, with the assistance of Reynold Genest. Most of the photographs were taken by Jerry Wainwright, with the exception of a few made by Roger and David Olds.

The exhibit will be at the Tantamount until December 1. Why not plan to see "KingKong" at the theatre this Friday or Saturday night and take in the display at the same time. Or if you can't fit that into your plans, the Tantamount is open in the afternoons Tuesday through Friday.

Carmel Valley Puppeteers to appear at 'Festival of Trees'

"The Devil with his pitchfork fought,
While Punch had but a stick, Sir,
But killed the Devil as he ought.
Huzza! there's no Old Nick, Sir!"

So closes the Collier version of the celebrated "Punch and Judy" show, which will be presented by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Francis Winans of Carmel Valley, on Saturday at the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art, 559 Pacific Street, Monterey. It will be shown during "Children's Day" as part of the 3-day "Festival of the Trees", Friday thru Sunday, the museum's first big public event at their new headquarters. The puppet shows are scheduled for 11 a.m. - 1 - 3 - and 4:30 p.m.

There also will be children's door prizes and a children's booth, stocked with gifts made by museum members under the direction of Mrs. John H. Nail, chairman of the Children's Day activities. All children are invited to attend this fun-filled "Sugar-plum Party". Donation will be $1 - 50c for children under 6. Hours will be 1 - 'til 6 on Saturday.

The "Punch and Judy" Show which will run about 40 minutes, originated in Italy in the 17th Century, having been adapted from a popular Italian opera, ("La Trappolaria" by J.B. della Porta) and soon to become a worldwide favorite of children, being performed primarily at Christmas time in museums and at church socials. The Winans have designed their puppets and staging after the drawings of Cruikshank, to gain delightful authenticity.

Tickets to "Punch and Judy" will be on sale at the door only, on Saturday. Girl Scout Troop 2034 will usher throughout the day.

The Sugar Plum Fairy will be on hand to delight the children and pass out favors.

The three day Festival of the Trees will open Friday with an Opening Night Gala Party from 6 p.m. Donation is $4 per person and the public is invited to attend. Saturday is Children's Day, and Sunday is "Family Day" - from 1 'til 5 p.m. Donation is $1, with children under 6, 50c. At 5 p.m. beautiful and valuable door prizes will be awarded. The public is invited to attend all 3 days.

Mrs. Norman D. (Lucille) Chasoff is general chairman of the event, which is the new version of the famous "Christmas Creations" party held by the museum in previous years.

'THE PARABLE' TO BE SHOWN WEDNESDAY EVE

DARING SKYDIVERS TO STAGE THRILLING EXHIBITION HERE SATURDAY AFTERNOON

A spectacular skydiving exhibition will be held on Saturday, Dec. 6th in the grassy mall behind the Mid-Valley Shopping Center at 4:00 p.m. Three death-defying skydivers will hurtle from a plane and make the pinpoint landing before a throng of onlookers.

The event is being sponsored by the Valley Cinema and the Mid-Valley Shopping Center in connection with the showing of "The Gypsy Moths" at the theatre. The three skydivers are members of the United States Parachute Assn. which has its world headquarters in Monterey.

Jerry Rouillard, assistant director of the association, served as technical director for the filming of the movie, assisting Burt Lancaster and director John Frankenheimer with technical knowhow. He also made several of the daredevil jumps in the film. Rouillard will be one of the divers in the exhibition Saturday.

Mid-Valley Shopping Center is located on Carmel Valley Road at Berwick Drive. The merchants are supporting the event by featuring "Skydiving Specials" for spectators who will be drawn to the area by the event. Among the many featured specials being offered are a ski package by Bill Hitchcock's Ski & Sport Shop, a special Skydiver's platter being offered by Kearns' Coffee Shop, big discount savings on dry cleaning, laundry and shoe repair by Tierra Grande Cleaners, and much, much more!

When you turn on by falling free...when jumping is not only a way to live but a way to die, too...you're a Gypsy Moth.

CARMEL CHUTIST LEADS JUMPERS

Leader in the sky-diving event will be Jerry Rouilliard, 29, of Carmel. He is assistant executive director of the U.S. Parachute Assn., a 13,500-member affiliate of the National Aeronautic Assn.

He also serves as director of the National Collegiate Parachuting League, is meet director of the upcoming National Collegiate Parachuting Championships, and has logged 1,450 parachute jumps.

Born at Minneapolis, Rouilliard served three years in the U.S. Army as a paratrooper, holding the rank of sergeant on his discharge in 1961.

Rouilliard attended Arizona State University, and made his first sport parachute jump at Phoenix in 1963. He has performed as a stuntman and technical advisor for the MGM production of "Gypsy Moths", the featured movie at the Valley Cinema this weekend. He made over 125 jumps during the filming on location in Kansas, and was the technical coach for Burt Lancaster during the filming of parachuting-related scenes.

SCOTT WILSON checks fellow sky-diver Burt Lancaster's rigging as the latter prepares to go aloft for a death-defying cape jump in a barnstorming exhibition above a Kansas plain. The scene is from MGM's thrill-packed "The Gypsy Moths," also starring Deborah Kerr, with Gene Hackman, William Windom, Sheree North and Bonnie Bedelia in important roles. It is showing now at the Valley Cinema.

Highlighted by the breathtaking thrills of free-fall maneuvers performed by three barn-storming sky-divers and filmed high above the Kansas plains, "The Gypsy Moths," John Frankenheimer-Edward Lewis production for MGM, brings one of the year's most exciting new movie attractions to the . . . screen this week.

The picture's ace cast is headed by Burt Lancaster and Deborah Kerr, who previously scored together in the memorable "From Here to Eternity," and co-stars Gene Hackman, Scott Wilson, William Windom, Sheree North and 19-year-old Bonnie Bedelia, talented young actress of television and the Broadway stage.

Directed by Frankenheimer, it was produced by Hal Landers and Bobby Roberts, with Edward Lewis as Executive Producer. William Hanley wrote the screenplay based on a story by James Drought, with the music for the Metrocolor attraction composed by Elmer Bernstein.

"The Gypsy Moths" tells the story of three sky-divers of divergent ages and temperaments — Mike Rettig (Burt Lancaster), Joe Browdy (Gene Hackman) and Malcolm Webson (Scott Wilson) — who are bound together by the risks of their hazardous profession. Their barnstorming exhibition tour brings them to the small town of Bridgeville, Kansas, where Webson, the youngest member of the trio, was born and raised by an aunt and uncle following the death of his parents.

Webson telephones Elizabeth and V. John Brandon (Deborah Kerr, William Windom), his relatives, and the three sky-divers are given a cordial invitation to be the Brandons' house guests during their brief stay in Bridgeville. From that moment, the plot develops with the speed of a free drop from 7,000 feet. For beneath the apparent placid surface of average, everyday men and women lie smoldering inner conflicts of pent-up emotions and passions.

Before "The Gypsy Moths" reaches its absorbing climax, three compelling relationships have been established, the first between Rettig and Elizabeth Brandon; the second between Webson and Annie Burke (Bonnie Bedelia), an attractive college girl who rooms with the Brandons; the third between Browdy and a topless dancer in a cheap beer joint (Sheree North). And the loves, hates, hopes and fears of each character are exposed with all the shock of touching an exposed raw nerve.

Three Kansas locations formed the "Bridgeville" of "The Gypsy Moths." The Nelson Air Field, 20 miles outside Wichita, became the Bridgeville Airport, setting for the daring parachute exhibition. Deborah Kerr's movie home was found in El Dorado, and Abilene, dominated by a stately courthouse, was the third of the principal locations.

A smash hit in its initial engagement at New York's famous Radio City Music Hall, "The Gypsy Moths" received such accolades as Cue Magazine's "A truly touching human document. Everything is beautifully wrought and the performances are uniformly excellent." — New Yorker Magazine: "The picture leaves some real things in the mind as the best American movies about danger and loners always have done." N. Y. Post: "Magnificently staged and photographed. It is par excellence a picture dealing with that most melodramatic of action events, sky diving. John Frankenheimer can take a bow for this one!"

UNDER THE OAKS & AMONG THE CACTI

By Mildred Hattan

HOME FROM LONDON is Mrs. Eddie Eagling of Berwick Drive, who paid a surprise visit to and had the thrilling experience of watching her son, Wayne, perform with the company of the Royal Ballet in Covent Gardens. Nineteen on Thanksgiving Day, Wayne has studied with them for 4 years. Thelma was permitted to attend many closed rehearsals of the company during her stay and enjoyed observing the classes of the Upper Ballet School in daily sessions from 9:30 until 5:45. She was able to endure a week of typical London fog during her two week stay, thanks to the kindness of the British who brought her hot tea in bed, hot water bottles, and wooly bed socks! One weekend was spent in Southeastern England in her husband's birthplace of Norfolk where she met for the first time in 21 years all of her husband's relatives. She visited the home, church, and haunts of Eddie's boyhood. A family reunion was planned in her honor by his four brothers and three sisters. All of them are married and each one is the parent of two children. The Eaglings are looking forward to April when Wayne will come with the company to New York for a six week engagement. Thelma was privileged to meet all of the company with the exception of Fontaine & Nureyre who were dancing in Paris.

THE SMUGGEST RESIDENT in Carmel Valley the day AFTER Thanksgiving was undoubtedly a hen turkey named Guinevere. Now Guinevere is convinced that she is a Saint Bernard since her only memory is of life on the Saint Bernard Farm in the Lower Valley, but with all of that pre-holiday publicity about dinners whose main courses resemble a Saint like Guinevere, a girl just CAN'T be too careful! 'Village Dwarves' create novel silk-screen fabrics

Thalidomide nor any other elixir had anything to do with the creation of the Village Dwarves who sprang into existence in Carmel Valley Village under the persuasion of Mrs. Harvey Olson.

Some of their original silk screened fabrics were submitted to the Fine Arts and Crafts Festival Committee and much to their delight were accepted for the "39 Craftsmen For Christmas Show", Friday thru Sunday.

The Village Dwarves - Mrs. Harvey Olson, Mrs. Charles Rose, Mrs. David Tucker and Bob Riddell (a well-known silk screen artist) - went to work in earnest to create original hand-sewn silk screened dress fashions and accessories for the show.

These bright, happy, original fashions with their unique designs of quail, hearts and butterflies may be one of the highlights of the show at the La Playa Hotel in Carmel at 6 o'clock with a wine and boar party.

Seek camp staff applicants

Each summer the Monterey Bay Area Council, Boy Scouts of America, operates its Pico Blanco Scout Reservation for the benefit of the 4,000 Scouts and Explorers of the council. To operate the camp, a staff of 25 young adults must be recruited to provide counseling and training for the Scouts who attend the camp.

Applications are now being accepted from young men 15 years of age and older who have a strong desire to serve their fellow men in a meaningful manner. Applicants must be registered members of the Boy Scouts of America, in good health, proficient in two or more Scouting skills, of good character and available from June 28 to August 22.

Positions to be filled are in aquatics, nature, Scoutcraft, trading post, archery, dining hall, kitchen, and maintenance.

Interested applicants should apply to the Scout Service Center, 55 San Joaquin Street, Salinas, or write to Monterey Bay Area Council, P.O. Box 1967, Salinas, Ca. 93901 for applications.

CHANG TELLS KIWANIAN ABOUT URBAN RENEWAL

Arthur Chang, director of Monterey Urban Renewal Development, spoke to the Kiwanis Club about urban renewal in general, as well as some of the problems of the program in Monterey. It all began, he said, back in 1937 with the formation of the FHA. That program was implemented and expanded in 1949 by legislation which would permit cities to clear run-down areas and rebuild them.

Under this plan, the Federal government would put up three-fourths of the cost of the program. In 1959, Monterey Urban Renewal had its inception. In 1962, purchase of property and clearing of the area involved began.

According to Chang, the project has run into many delays caused by the construction of the vehicular tunnel, pre-emption by other shopping areas and some politics. Construction of the tunnel eliminated traffic problems, cleared the area of automobiles and permitted the protection and better display of historical buildings. Plans are to develop a commercial complex along with cultural and tourist-oriented activities, including a motel, theater, etc. The center of the plan is a J.C. Penney Store of 200,000 square feet - with an additional 200,000 square feet for other retail businesses. Because of its location, no housing is included in the development, which is expected to be under construction by the middle of 1970.

Call for 'young bloods'

The bloodmobile will be at the Red Cross chapter in Carmel on December 5 from 9:00 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

Special emphasis is being placed on the recruitment of donors in the young age group since a recent survey of blood donors disclosed that 62 percent of the regular donors were over 40 years. E.J. Mulrooney, blood program chairman, reported to the board of directors at its November board meeting that many donors who began giving steadily during the Korean conflict are one by one arriving at the age limit when they must be removed from the roster. Young people must be found if we are to have an adequate supply of blood

Do you remember

THREE YEARS AGO:

"Captain and Mrs. Thomas McKiernon and daughter Patti entertained Marjorie's nephew and family, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Nanney and children Jan, Gay and John, who drove from their home in Capitola to spend Thanksgiving at the McKiernon home on Vista del Rio."

SIX YEARS AGO:

"Dr. and Mrs. Toland Doud and their three daughters of Merrill Way chose to ignore tradition and observed Thanksgiving with a chicken barbecue and hiking midst the beauty of Fall in the Big Sur country. They were joined by Mrs. Doud's sister, husband and three daughters, the Bob Fischers of Carmel."

SEVEN YEARS AGO:

"There are still tickets available for 'Baby Dear One', the Christmas doll dressed annually by the Auxiliary of the Carmel Valley Volunteer Fire Department with proceeds going to Children's House. This year's toddler doll with her very own crib, high chair, and adorable wardrobe is on display at the Grapevine..."

Men understand the look of gold, as well as appreciate its basic value. Also, consider one of our fine men's rings, either traditional or modern in feeling, set with a fine gemstone. We will help you make a selection to please both of you. for the hospitals in the future.

In addition to the help of all board members the recruitment committee has sent a letter to all gallon donors urging them to assist in locating replacements in the younger age bracket. Persons 18 years of age no longer need the written permission of a parent or guardian to donate blood. Appointments may be made by calling the chapter, 624-6921 -- during office hours. As a buffet lunch is served it is possible to donate blood and have lunch during the noon hour.

People employed in Carmel, whether they live here or elsewhere, may give at the bloodmobile in Carmel and obtain one year's coverage, should blood be needed for themselves or members of their family, including parents-in-law and grandparents.

LIONS HEAR TALK BY DR. B. CHARLES JENKINS

The Carmel Valley Lions Club didn't meet last week, because of the Thanksgiving Holiday, but at their previous meeting heard an interesting talk by Dr. B. Charles Jenkins.

A cyto-geneticist, Dr. Jenkins has for years been working towards improving Triticola, a hybrid of several varieties of wheat and rye. He has done research in both Canada and Mexico before moving to the Salinas Valley.

A chance discovery of his, further improved crossing with other varieties of wheat, known for their resistance to frost and drouth, has proved most successful. While testing is still going on, he now has a grain yielding on tassels often a foot long, several times more than any previous yield.

Cliff Bolgard was program chairman and presented his neighbor, Norman Bundgard, who introduced the speaker.

It was reported at the meeting that Carmel is planning on organizing an evening Lions Club.

The local Lions handled the concession at the Golden Oaks Horse Show Sunday. LeRoy Dufur was chairman of the group doing the work.

The local Lions will meet again next Wednesday evening at Rippling River.

PRELIMINARY HEARING ON HITCHCOCK CANYON ROBBERY

On Monday, November 27, a preliminary hearing was held in connection with a Hitchcock Canyon theft which took place on October 23. Peter Scardina, age 30, of Cachagua Road in Carmel Valley, and Rodney Lambert, age 22, of Jamesburg, pleaded guilty to the charges of theft. Roof shakes were taken from building materials stored on the Libby property.

Dates for sentencing have been set for December 2 and 9 in Monterey, after probation officers have had time to review the case. Investigating officers in the incident were Deputy Frank Loughron and Sergeant Roger Chatterton, both of the Monterey County Sheriff's Department.

HELEN VAN AKEN MEARS . . .

SHE HAS WRITTEN A REMARKABLE CHILDREN'S BOOK

BY BONNIE WELLER

"I do think that children need more fantasy," said the author of "TATSU the Dragon." After a pause, Mrs. Mears continued, "They need to use their imagination, or it will go off in wrong directions."

In her comfortable apartment at Hacienda Carmel, Helen Mears and I discussed her children's book. "I wrote the original story almost thirty years ago," she said quietly, looking down at her hands. "At that time, you couldn't market a Japanese story..."

Mrs. Mears lived in Kanazawa, Japan for five years, where she taught English to Japanese girls in a private school operated by the Presbyterian Church. "While I was there, I went to the temple festivals, parades, and other celebrations," she continued.

"After I returned to the United States, I took a correspondence course in writing children's stories. One assignment was to write a fantasy. I thought of the dragons that are used in the parades which go with the temple festivals."

Helen lifted her clear blue eyes and smiled. "I've always been fascinated with the story of how the park in Kanazawa was built. They say the gardener was executed so he couldn't duplicate the park anywhere else, because it was so beautiful. And there's a turtle bridge, except the turtles aren't alive as they are in TATSU."

Rising from her chair, Helen brought a copy of her book. "If I ever return to Kanazawa, I'll expect to meet Tatsu circling around the castle gate trying out his new wings, which must be full-grown by now, or coming in to land in the courtyard of Jiro's and Zenji's house," the author writes inside of the book-cover.

It was in Maxine Shore's Writing For Publication classes at the Carmel Adult School that Mrs. Mears thought about expanding her short story into book form.

This is the summary of the story, which appears inside the book-cover:

"TATSU wasn't a real dragon. Jiro and Zenji made him for a festival parade, out of bamboo hoops and cloth. But as soon as he was finished, he began to feel like a real dragon, even though he didn't have any wings.

"When the magic balloon man blew him up so he could slither around, and gave him a tin horn for a voice, Tatsu thought it was time for him to go out and rescue a beautiful maiden in distress. That was how he met Kiku and the wicked Chief Executioner; and how, in the end, he got his wings.

"Young readers can follow Tatsu on his adventures all over Japan, from the Fire Festival on an island in the Inland Sea (where he was mistaken for a fire demon), to the top of an erupting volcano, in an exciting story set in the authentic Japan of feudal times."

- Helen Van Aken

Tatsu is the Japanese name for a dragon. The book is illustrated beautifully by Yoshie Noguchi and published by the Charles E. Tuttle Company of Rutland, Vermont and Tokyo, Japan.

"The Japanese publisher is an outgrowth of the Richard Tuttle Company in London," Mrs. Mears explained. "Mr. Tuttle started out in Vermont with a book-store. Later, he was in the Army of Occupation stationed in Japan after the War, and he became interested in publishing there. He married a Japanese woman and lives there with his family."

Ruth McCaw, a fifth-grade teacher in Troy, New York read "Tatsu" to her class and asked the students to write what they thought of the book. Then, she made up a scrapbook of their compositions for the author. The comments are thoughtful. Two of them read:

"I like Tatsu the Dragon because the author expresses her feelings in action. The dragon seems to be real. It was mysterious about the executioner. The colors that made up Tatsu were beautiful." - Lisa Hogan

"I liked Tatsu the Dragon because the book was based on some real facts and some fairy tale facts. I think that some of the things like wings, magic rings and balloons are very fantastic things. But I think that Tatsu was a good and loyal dragon. Tatsu was loyal to the princess and guarded her well." - Jim Cummings

In 1967, Mrs. Mears made a trip back to New York to see Mrs. McCaw's students produce a play of "Tatsu". They feted her with a tea after the production. And Helen says she was surprised at the intelligent questions they asked her about Tatsu.

Mrs. Mears is a native of Amsterdam, New York. Her maiden name is Van Aken, which is reflected in her quiet Dutch dignity. After attending the State University of New York in Albany, Helen did graduate work at Middlebury College in Vermont. Later, she taught English in Amsterdam.

When asked whether or not she had any advice to give neophyte writers, Mrs. Mears replied, "Go to Maxine Shore's class - and be willing to take criticism which is constructive. I've taken many writing courses over the years, and I feel that Maxine's is the best one.... She gets down to the nitty-gritty which every writer must learn."

George T.C. Smith, our colorful photographer, breezed in to take pictures of Helen. While he posed her on the patio, I looked around at the Japanese scrolls and plants in her cozy apartment. Books filled the shelves in the living room and hall. "This way, I'm free to travel, without worrying about the lawn being watered and someone to look after the place," Helen had told me earlier.

Ten years ago, she moved to Carmel. Until 1966, she worked for the Carmel Foundation. A sequel to "Tatsu the Dragon" has been completed. I heard part of "Kiku and the Daimyo's Daughter" in Maxine Shore's Advanced Workshop, and it's just as delightful as the first one. She's also written a play, adapted from "Tatsu", for adult theater.

Now, Helen is working on a young people's book, set in England in the 1780s. This story has both romance and adventure, with the hero and the heroine making their way to the New World.

The picture-taking session over, George parted with his favorite bit of Oriental philosophy: "Look always toward the rising sun."

When asked about reviews of "Tatsu," Helen brought me one which appeared in the Monterey Peninsula Herald two years ago. "My favorite review," she said. Written by D. Kirke Erskine, it reads in part:

"Assuming that it would be unsuitable for an adult to review this lovely book without the opinion of those who will eventually be called upon to judge it, it was read to two young critics. What a delight it is to read to children ...

"Miss Helen Van Aken, a Carmel resident, can be justly proud of providing young readers with Tatsu and old readers with the enjoyable opportunity of introducing younger readers to him. This is an excellent place to start a lifetime of pleasure."

This observation was one I'd offered Helen when I came in. Truly, the book is charming. I would've loved reading it to my youngsters. Children indulge in fantasy to fashion dreams. Psychologists tell us that we write the scripts for our lives between the ages of 6 and 17 years. Let our children sprinkle some butterfly dust into the harsh realities of life. Later on, in difficult times, their ability to dream will counteract the discipline of hard work which they must go through to attain goals.

Mrs. Shore and others say that fantasy and humor are the hardest things to write. Helen Van Aken Mears as fairy godmother, with a twinkle of her wand, has brought Tatsu to life.

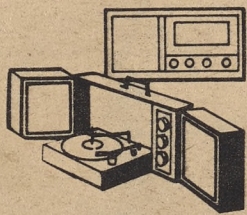

"Tatsu the Dragon" can be found at local bookstores. Put it on your Christmas list for some favorite child in your family.

Fire destroys upholstery shop and garage in Village Friday

Last Friday, at 9:45 a.m., five trucks and 11 men responded to a major alarm in the Mid-Village area. There, they found the Carmel Valley Upholstery Shop and the Texaco repair shop going up in flames. Using three pumpers (701, 707, and 708), firemen fought for some time before subduing the blaze, and preventing it from spreading.

At the rear of the building, owned by William Conlan, were four cars. Heat from molten metal made entry impossible. The front part of the building used by Art Fosso for an upholstery shop was a total loss inside, too. Cars destroyed were an MGTF (1964) belonging to Tom McKiernon, an MGB (1965) owned by Johnnie Thomas, an Austin Healy (1959) belonging to Gary Gibson, and an MG 1100 (1965) owned by Ward Moore.

Firemen were at the scene until 11:29 a.m. Estimated damage caused by the fire was $30,000 -- $20,000 to the contents of the building, and $10,000 to the building itself.

Art Fosso operated the upholstery shop while the repair shop was operated by Norman Wallace, who also runs the adjacent Texaco station.

According to Fire Chief "Chip" Collins, the blaze was started in the concrete-block building by sparks from a grinding wheel which ignited with an automotive cleaning-solvent. Approximately one-half case of ether exploded during the fire. Bill Parham, volunteer firemen, mashed his right index finger fighting the blaze.

Another fire, which occurred on Sunday at 4:37 p.m., caused only minor damage to the guest-house at the John C. Scudder property on Panetta Road. Fifteen men and two trucks (702 and 708) arrived on the scene to find a brush fire. The blaze was quickly extinguished. A book of matches and cigarettes left on the porch of the guest-house indicated that children may have started the fire.

Firefighters were called out again at 1:23 a.m. Tuesday to answer an alarm at 180 Calle de la Ventana in Robles del Rio. The occupants of the house, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Weiss, told firemen that they believe the fire started from sparks from the fireplace. The blaze destroyed an overstuffed chair and bookcase, scorched walls and some other furniture. The fire department estimated damages at $350 -- including $150 to contents and $200 to the structure which is owned by C.H. Conley.

USE PERMIT APPROVED FOR SUBUD IN VALLEY

The Monterey County Zoning Administrator has granted a use permit to Subud, Calif., for a church and single family dwelling in Carmel Valley, a mile east of the Village. The property was formerly used by the Joan Baez Institute for Non-Violence.

The hearing officer opened the hearing stating that this is a continued use permit application located in a limited industrial district. The matter had been continued in order to obtain further information from the Monterey County Road Department about the proposed widening along the frontage of this site and if additional right-of-way would be required. The county will be widening Carmel Valley Road and additional right-of-way will be required. Subud, Calif., indicated it wishes to purchase the property for permanent facilities.

The Upper Carmel Valley Advisory Committee had recommended approval of the use permit. Ilbert Tucker appeared representing Subud and requested that no time limit be placed on the permit if approved.

It was the decision of the zoning administrator to grant the use permit, subject to the following condition: that the parking lot layout be approved by the director of planning.

At its next meeting on Dec. 11, the Zoning Administrator will consider the following use permit applications:

A continuation of a subdivision sign for Los Tulares Land Co.

Servants quarters for Mrs. T.A. Work.

A guest house for Kipp Stewart.

A trailer house office for the Monterey County Road Commissioner.

All of the above are located in Carmel Valley.

Carmel Youth Center sells cordwood to raise funds

The Carmel Youth Center needs funds to help finance their activities for the next two months. This is the most difficult time of the year for them, preceding their handling of food concessions at the Bing Crosby Clambake from January 22 to 25.

On December 19 and 20, the Youth Center group will present the Twentieth Annual Christmas Capers at Sunset Center in Carmel. This delightful presentation of gaily-costumed performers pantomiming all the Christmas songs is the gift of the kids to the community for its support.

To raise funds, the young people are cutting, hauling, splitting, stacking and selling cordwood. Adults helping out on the project are J.O. Handley, Herman Dean, and E. Tolleson of Carmel Views. Jim Handley is handling transportation and sales. And James Kalber is the splitter.

If you'd like to support the Youth Center, call 624-3285 or 624-1753 to place your order. Or you can stop by the Center, located at Torres & Fourth in Carmel. Donations are tax-deductible.

Girl Scout trip to Airport enjoyed by three patrols

The Salinas tour was arranged by TWA Pilot Capt. Donald Draper for three Carmel Valley Girl Scout patrols.

We went thru the Observation Tower to watch Traffic Control and learned about the paneled instruments.

Then we went thru flight service station where they explained the purpose of it. The girls were allowed to release a weather balloon.

We went thru Cessna and Piper Airplanes.

Next we went to glider and their tow-plane hanger.

Each girl sat in the pilot seat of a Glider plane and learned how it's controlled.

Parent participants were Leader Mrs. Robt. Willingham, Mrs. Gregory Aeschliman, and Capt. Donald Draper.

Girl Scouts who attended were: Patrol I - Peggy Draper, Susan Peach, Leslie Robinson, Tami Stainbrook, Darcee Johnston, Marion Nason, Katie Walsh, Barbara Rammel. Patrol II - Melody Mancebo, Cathy Peach, Sandie Trout, Debbie Lorenez, Lisa Aeschliman, Ragan Frazer, Betsy Clark, Leslie Johnson. Patrol III - Marla Stewart, Tina Crippen, Katie Bliss, Becky Lambert, Karen Cornwell, Diane Hubert, Carol Valanlini.

Here, the spacecraft is shown moments before touching inside the great Lunar crater Clavius, and toward a mystery that has risen out of the past and is now baffling the 21st century's keenest minds. The Earth hangs low on the horizon. The Academy-Award winning film is now playing at the Cinema 70 in Del Monte Center.

MARZIPAN DELLA ROBBIA WREATH

When Yule time draws near, my sparetime is turned to candy making. My most exciting candy is the Della Robbia Wreath made with Marzipan paste. The candy paste is very simple to make but, the sculpturing of the fruits and leaves takes hours. To me, hours of fun. If you like clay modeling you will find this candy right up your alley.

Here is what you need.
Marzipan paste, white Karo Syrup and one package of powdered sugar. Paint Brushes, food coloring and a toothpick or two to sculpt with, wax paper and a pattern.

1 - 8 oz. can of Marzipan paste, cut into tiny slivers into a medium sized mixing bowl, add 4 tablespoons of Karo Syrup and blend till even. Add powdered sugar and work in gradually until you have an even texture about the consistency of modeling clay.

For the wreath pictured, I draw a circle on white paper and slip it under a sheet of wax paper. My wreath is 8 1/2 inches across to fit on the top of an angel food cake.

In the palms of your hands roll bits of Marzipan into shapes. I start usually with the bananas, because they are so much fun. These I roll into lengths and pinch each end. The oranges are slightly packed all over with a toothpick with a deep dent to resemble a navel orange, etc. You can use your artistic imagination and choose your own combination of fruits.

The wreath here pictured has 5 oranges, 6 bananas, 1 bunch of grapes, 5 apples, 5 lemons, 4 mandarin oranges and 29 leaves.

When all your fruits have been made and placed on wax paper to dry, get out your paint brush and a suitable container to mix paints (food color of course). I use a plastic egg holder and can think of nothing more suitable or easily cleaned to use to mix up color in. I paint the fruits first and place them on the wax paper over my pattern more or less where they balance, not necessarily equally spaced. When all fruits are in place, I then paint the leaves and tuck the wreath together as I place the leaves.

This is a beautiful decoration and if you plan to top a cake with it as I did, use the extra paste to make extra leaves and fruits to decorate around the base of the plate. Happy Holiday Candy Making to You!

UNICEF Greeting Cards available

The grim realities of life often lead to feelings of great frustration and despair. War, poverty, disease and starvation around the world leave many with a feeling of utter helplessness. While no one person can put right all of what's wrong with the world today, one can make a contribution and put a little more meaning into the Holiday Season.

The greeting cards sold each year by the United Nations Children's Fund provide the means by which one can help give some of the millions of underprivileged children throughout the world a chance for a better and longer life.

UNICEF cards can be purchased at the Co-Op Art Center, near the Post Office in Carmel Valley Village, at Imports & at Carmel Rancho, at the House of Peace in Carmel, or the Alpha Book Store in Pacific Grove.

Next Chamber meeting will be held on Thursday, Dec. 11

The Carmel Valley Chamber of Commerce will meet next week instead of Thursday of this week, the regularly scheduled monthly meeting date.

Rae Black, secretary, said that the next meeting of the Valley organization will be on Thursday, Dec. 11, at Rippling River Resort.

"THE REPORT OF MY DEATH was an exaggeration," Mark Twain cabled the Associated Press from Europe many years ago. After my worst mistake in the paper to date, BOB FORD'S friends called to tell me that he is very much alive in the Carmel Convalescent Hospital. (Reference - "Rosie's Cracker Barrel" in last issue.) I've heard a lot about Bob Ford since I started working for the OUTLOOK. And because of the elegiac tones used when speaking of this great man in Valley history, I thought he was no longer around. In journalism, you're not supposed to assume! My deepest apologies to Mr. Ford: We'll tell you more about him soon.

WHILE I'M ON THE SUBJECT, I might as well clarify another faux pas. The White Oaks Gallery I keep mentioning is officially the Carmel Valley Art Gallery located on the White Oaks' property. That is where you can see Jack Swanson's paintings and sculpture.

Someone called the other day, inquiring about Jack's bronze, "First Look." He's making only 20 numbered copies. And those copies are available from the Carmel Valley Art Gallery or Jack's studio up in Cachagua.

ON SATURDAY, DECEMBER 6, Ann Fairbairn will be at the Thunderbird Book Store in Valley Hills Shopping Center. She will autograph copies of her book, "Call Him George." This book tells the story of George Lewis, "one of the greatest clarinetists who ever played 'traditional' music in the bands and street marches of New Orleans." Readers on the Peninsula are familiar with Ann Fairbairn's other book, "Five Smooth Stones." Actually, "Call Him George" was her first book, but it was published in England before being printed here by Crown Publishers this year. George Lewis was the model for the father in "Five Smooth Stones." Ann Fairbairn is the pen name used by Dorothy Tate of Pacific Grove. If you stop by the Thunderbird between 1:00 and 3:00 p.m. on Saturday, you can meet her personally.

SPEAKING OF BOOKS, did you see Snoopy's, "It Was A Dark and Stormy Night," in the Sunday comics? Very impressive plot, but a little complex!!! "I may have written myself into a corner," says Schulz's lovable dog character in "Peanuts."

ON THE EAST SIDE of the theater building in Mid-Valley Shopping Center are the most beautiful bougain-villaea espaliered up the wall. I love to see these soft - red flowers that look like paper poppies ... The pyracantha and toyon berries are blooming, too, and look so Christmasy.

REMEMBER RALPH R. PAYTON, the photographer we told you about last month? Well, he stopped in the office the other day to show me the brass medal he received from the Photographic and Arts and Science Foundation as a Hall of Fame Elector. Quite an impressive piece of brass. "Electors have the final say in how the organization is run," Mr. Payton explained.

WARREN PATTISON also stopped in. He's the charming old gentleman who took a stray kitten home with him back in the summer. "Monkey," he says, is "fat and happy." Every night, Mr. Pattison plays a game with the cat. He casts a fishing line, with a cork attached to the end, which Monkey loves scrambling after.

Eventually, I'd like to find out more about Mr. and Mrs. Pattison. Honestly, this Valley has so many unique and interesting people, it seems hopeless to even touch the surface. BUT I'm trying ...

FOR INSTANCE, we stopped in at the Los Laureles Lodge for dinner one night. This lodge is rich in Valley lore, being the old Boronda land-grant. And one of the Vanderbilt daughters owned it in the not-so-recent past. John and Aileen Bulmer, who own and operate the lodge, have an interesting background, too. An article about Los Laureles appeared in the November issue of "Buick Bulletin," which is published in San Jose.

The night we had dinner there, they had hand-knits on sale. Aileen says, "I have a teeny-bopper mind and a senior citizen's body." Too much! She just happens to be an attractive and buxom blonde.

The California Rural Legal Assistants will be meeting at Los Laureles Lodge on December 5, 6 and 7. This is a group of young attorneys in training for the program. Around 70 are expected to attend the workshop in Spanish. A couple of weeks, ago the Council for Exceptional Children met there, with Bob Woods as speaker at a dinner for 75 members.

Paul and Barbara Porter were leaving the lodge as we came in. Smiling with anticipation, Paul told us that he was going pheasant hunting the next day - and duck hunting the day after. I haven't asked him what kind of luck he had that weekend.

WE ALSO WENT TO THE TANTAMOUNT to see "Gaslight" and the display of Stone, Post & Flower in the Green Room there. The movie, starring Charles Boyer and Ingrid Bergman, had lost none of its spellbinding quality in some 20-odd years.

Francois Martin, co-owner with Ralph Geddis of the charming theater, said they saw the play, "Angel Street," from which the movie was adapted, about 30 years ago in Newport, Rhode Island. Angela Lansbury has since risen to fame on Broadway as "Mame" and other productions.

The Tantamount was filled to capacity that night. Among those attending were Tony Zurich, who's one of the Sierra Club leaders; Tony's sister and her husband, Wade Parks - the well-known pianist, along with their son, Wade Jr.; John and Graeme Harrison from Carmel Valley Inn; and Mary Wilsey (Mrs. Earle) with her youngest daughter, Beth. The Wilsey's live just around the corner ...

TIM BRATTIN, son of Mrs. Edie Brattin, was in Houston, Texas last week attending the National Convention for Junior AIA (Associated Institute of Architects). The convention was held at Rice College, and 28 major colleges were represented. Tim was there for his junior class at Cal-Poly in San Luis Obispo. An honor student, Tim is hoping for a scholarship to study in Rome his senior year. To Mrs. Brattin's delight, he flew home in time for Thanksgiving dinner at home.

IN CONNECTION with the coming attraction at Valley Cinema, "Gypsy Moths," a Skydiving Exhibition will be staged at the Mid-Valley Shopping Center in Carmel Valley on Saturday at 4:00 p.m. Three sky-divers will jump - two guys and a gal. One of the jumpers is Jerry Rouillard who was technical consultant to Burt Lancaster and others in "Gypsy Moths." The event is being sponsored by the Valley Cinema and the Mid-Valley merchants.

DAVID WATKINS, formerly a reporter and photographer for the OUTLOOK, has designed a Christmas card which is being sold to raise funds for COR. The Committee of Responsibility (COR) is an organization devoted to helping Vietnamese children who have been victims of the war. David took the appealing photograph of a small girl in silhouette looking out at the ocean, which is on the gold-and-brown card. And the verse inside was also written by him. These cards are available at the Thunderbird Book Shop in Valley Hills Shopping Center, Carmel Valley, or at the Encounter, located next door to the Post Office in Carmel Valley Village.
